Planted in 1930, this historic plot is situated on the hillside at the foot of the "Sous la Velle" climat, whose name references its location: below the village of Meursault. The vines, which are nearly 100 years old, sink their roots into clay soil resting on a subsoil of fine gravel, which provides excellent drainage. The age of the vines, combined with low yields and small, millerandage berries, gives the wine remarkable density and richness.

The nose blends white-fleshed fruits, citrus, and notes of white flowers. On the palate, the wine is full-bodied and round, with a long, elegant finish.

This Meursault, which is both rich and perfectly balanced, has the structure of a great cellar wine and will reveal its true elegance after being laid down for a few years.
